12. What did your organization do to contribute to Salem's appeal as a tourist destination? Highlight one activity that occurred during the period.

This past winter, the Hallie Ford Museum of Art presented two exhibitions that attracted excellent crowds, in spite of the coronavirus pandemic and our ongoing requirements for face masks, social distancing, and proof of vaccination: "Arvie Smith: Scarecrow" and "Depth of Field: Selections from the Bill Rhoades Collection of Northwest Photography." Arvie Smith (American, born 1938) is a nationally-recognized African American painter from Portland, Oregon, who deals with issues of race and identity in his work. Organized by director John Olbrantz, the exhibition featured 26 works on loan from public and private collections throughout the United States. In addition to the works on display, the exhibition was accompanied by a text panel, quotes from the artist, a 5-minute video on Smith produced by OPB for "Oregon Art Beat," and a full-color book on the artist and his career.

In addition to the Arvie Smith exhibition, we presented "Depth of Field: Selections from the Bill Rhoades Collection of Northwest Photography." Organized by curator Jonathan Bucci in collaboration with collector Bill Rhoades, the exhibition presented a range of photography donated by Rhoades over the past few years, including works by Robert Adams, Imogen Cunningham, Mary Randlett, and Terry Toedtemeier, among many others. A special Zoom panel discussion was present in conjunction with the exhibition that featured collector Bill Rhoades, photographers Stu Levy and Jim Hickman, and Portland art historian Prudence Roberts, and a 12-page, black/white brochure on the collector and the collection written by Professor Emeritus Roger Hull was published to accompany the exhibition.

TOT dollars were earmarked exclusively for promotion and advertising of our two winter exhibitions, including print and electronic ads in the Oregonian/Oregon Live, Oregon Arts Watch, Press Play, and the Salem and Eugene weeklies, as well as radio ads on OPB and the classical music station in Portland. In addition, TOT ads were used to fund a large 12.5 x 24 foot banner on the west façade of our building that promoted "Arvie Smith: Scarecrow," as well as announcement cards and posters that promoted both winter exhibitions.

13. Report on one of the benchmarks or performance measures used by your organization. Include the outcome, goal and method used to track as provided in your application.

As part of our TOT grant from the City of Salem, we identified two outcomes related to CTPAB goals that we hoped to achieve this year: increase attendance at the Hallie Ford Museum of Art by 10% in 2021-22, and increase attendance at our education programs by 10% during the same time period. Both goals were intended to increase our impact on cultural tourism and enhance the quality of life in Salem. Unfortunately, neither goal will be achieved as a result of the coronavirus pandemic.

Nevertheless, in spite of the pandemic, building capacity limitations, social gathering restrictions, and proof of vaccination requirements, our attendance has remained brisk and robust this past year in spite of the many challenges we've faced. Of the 4,256 visitors who attended during the quarter, 4,023 visitors (94%) came from within a 50 mile radius of Salem/Keizer; 82 visitors (2%) came from beyond a 50 mile radius of Salem/Keizer but within Oregon; 151 visitors (4%) came from outside of Oregon but within the United States; and 0 visitors (0%) came from abroad. Governor Kate Brown came to see the exhibition the last week it was on view, and Arvie and I were able to give her a personal tour.

While our attendance figures were comparable to last fall but down from last summer, we still had an average daily attendance of 68 visitors and continued to have an important economic impact on the city and region. Based on a daily rate of $166 per night per visitor (Source: Travel Salem), for example, our 233 potential overnight visitors had a minimum economic impact of $38,687 during the winter; this figure could easily double if they stayed longer than one night. Moreover, this figure does not include our 4,023 day visitors who, at an average daily rate of $114 per visitor (Source: Travel), had a potential financial impact on the local economy of $458,622.

Similarly, because of social gathering restrictions imposed by the State of Oregon, education programs planned in conjunction with our exhibitions have been cancelled through the spring of 2022 and we are therefore unable to implement our CTPAB goal of increasing attendance at lectures, films, gallery talks, and the like by 10% this year. However, we do intend to resume educational programming beginning this summer in conjunction with our forthcoming David Roberts and April Waters exhibitions and continue into the fall and beyond if there's not another spike in the coronavirus or one of its variants.

12. What did your organization do to contribute to Salem's appeal as a tourist destination? Highlight one activity that occurred during the period.

The Bush Barn Art Center & Annex was able to re-open to the public after being closed for more than 15 months due to the COVID-19 pandemic. SAA, along with other cultural and performing arts non-profits in the area, provide important cultural experiences and opportunities that can be difficult to replicate in the private sector and which enhance Salem's appeal as a tourist destination. After months of isolation, having art gallery exhibitions open to the public gave people eager for cultural experiences something enriching to do in town, for either business or while on vacation.

SAA was very intentional about the shows it chose to re-open with. Four of the shows in our galleries during the Q1 grant period featured artists from underrepresented communities, and were part of SAA's efforts to become a more welcoming, inclusive, and diverse organization that more authentically represented Salem and the surrounding communities. Those shows included: Respect Existence or Expect Resistance, curated by Los Unidos Siempre (a youth-of-color led organization) with over a dozen Latinx artists showcased; a solo exhibition by Alex Buron, featuring photographs from Mexico; a solo show by painter Roberto Oran; and a solo show from Elish Gormley, a woman painter.

13. Report on one of the benchmarks or performance measures used by your organization. Include the outcome, goal and method used to track as provided in your application.

When Salem Art Association applied for this TOT grant, it was hard to imagine that we'd continue to be closed until July 2021 or that we'd have to cancel the in-person Salem Art Fair & Festival for the second straight year due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Our Outcome, Goal, and Method #1 was as follows: Art Fair will attract 25,000 attendees;18% of out of town visitors will come from over 50 miles; and comprehensive marketing campaign, ticket sales, zip codes collected.

Since Art Fair was canceled, we are unable to report on this performance measure during this quarter when Art Fair would've taken place.

12. What did your organization do to contribute to Salem's appeal as a tourist destination? Highlight one activity that occurred during the period.

In addition to offering free art exhibitions in the Bush Barn Art Center & Annex, SAA held related events that specifically appealed to underrepresented cultures in our community. In late October, in conjunction with our Ofrenda exhibition, we had a Dia de los Muertos celebration in the Annex, with Latinx music, dancers, and food and beverages. The event drew 200 people, and was so successful and supported that we are planning an even bigger celebration in 2022.

In November, we had two receptions for our Native Salem exhibition that drew people from outside of Salem to learn about Salem's early Native American history and the impacts of white settlement in the area now known as Salem but known then as Chemeketa Village. A total of 150 people attended these events. These types of outreach events to underrepresented communities help promote Salem as a place where all communities, cultures, and identities are welcome and they can see themselves reflected in the cultural fabric of our area.

13. Report on one of the benchmarks or performance measures used by your organization. Include the outcome, goal and method used to track as provided in your application.

Our Outcome, Goal, and Method #2 was as follows: Annex: Increase participation of underrepresented groups/individuals; Offer 40% of art programming in Annex to underrepresented groups; Attendance/quality of feedback/comfort level/request for more events.

In the time since applying for the grant in 2020, SAA has doubled-down on its efforts to increase underrepresented groups and individuals beyond just those showing in our Annex gallery. Therefore, rather than limiting this response to the Annex, we will be reporting on our efforts in all our galleries.

During Q2, we had six exhibitions in our four galleries (A.N. Bush, Camas, Focus, and Annex). Four of those shows featured artists from underrepresented communities, including Latinx artists, Native American artists, and women. Those shows were: Paint the Town (a large show with a mix of genders, races, and ethnicities represented); Ofrenda, featuring two Latinx artists (one of whom was a woman), a Dia de los Muertos alter installation and murals, along with an event featuring latinx music, dancing, and food; Native Salem, from curator David G. Lewis, an Native American scholar and historian, with a special VIP reception and City of Salem proclamation; and Small Wonders, another exhibition featuring artists of various genders, races, and ethnicities.

These exhibitions, along with the associated receptions and special events were very well received by the community, with many people commenting to staff that they were impressed with the new direction of SAA and were excited to see other upcoming shows.

12. What did your organization do to contribute to Salem's appeal as a tourist destination? Highlight one activity that occurred during the period.

One of the featured exhibitions in Q3 was John Collins, a well-known and well-respected artist from Southern Oregon. Collins has traveled around the world to create his artwork, and the SAA exhibition was a retrospective look at his body of work. His work is rarely exhibited in Oregon, and we used our email newsletter, website, and social media channels to publicize the show and the special meet-the-artist event at the end of the exhibition, which was well received and included several visitors from outside the region.

This exhibition is an example of the breadth of work we want to highlight and bring to the Salem area. We seek to have a wide range of artists, working in different mediums, with different studio practices, and at various points in their career for inclusion in our galleries. While we often feature local artists in both solo and group exhibitions, we pull our artists from around Oregon and the Pacific Northwest to expose our visitors to art they may not otherwise have a chance to see in person.

13. Report on one of the benchmarks or performance measures used by your organization. Include the outcome, goal and method used to track as provided in your application.

Our Outcome, Goal, and Method #2 was as follows: Annex: Increase participation of underrepresented groups/individuals; Offer 40% of art programming in Annex to underrepresented groups; Attendance/quality of feedback/comfort level/request for more events.

In Q3, we held seven different shows in the galleries, with three shows a mix of genders, races, and ethnicities, a women's group show, and a solo show by a woman – 57% of the shows included underrepresented communities or individuals. The show included: Young Artist Showcase (K-12 students); River Series #2 | Sara Swanberg; Spring Color (a mix of artists); Traces (9 women artists), and Poetry | Art (25 artists, 12 of which were women and 3 were Latinx). Of particular note, the Young Artist Showcase is one of the few opportunities in the area for young student artists to exhibit their art in a professional gallery. It is always one of the best attended and well-received shows on our exhibit calendar, and this year was no exception. People were particularly excited to have this year's showcase as the last two years the Bush Barn Art Center was closed and viewings and the awards ceremony greatly limited by the pandemic.

Spring is when our classes are at maximum capacity. This quarter, because of patrons wanting to learn beginning wheel throwing, we added two more classes to handle this demand. Two new creative hand building workshops were added, as well as a colored clay workshop which uses the Nerikomi technique using different colored clays to create intricate designs within the clay itself. During this quarter, our Empty Bowls throw-a-thons and glazing parties continued; and, we experienced an uptick in our attendance this quarter.

13. Report on one of the benchmarks or performance measures used by your organization. Include the outcome, goal and method used to track as provided in your application.

Facility attendance increased from 2063 in 2021 to 2777 in 2022, an increase of 38.642%. Data was collected by daily sign-in sheets, volunteer sheets, and by hand tally. The increase was due to the fact that classes were expanded, attendance was up, patrons purchased more passes, and Empty Bowls throw-a-thons were well attended.

Collaborated with local businesses including the skate shop Caakes, food truck Tacos de La O, guitarist Jon Dunne, local DJ's Cascadia Cuts, DJ Sticky Soundwavves, and footage captured by Media company Jayyshootsfuji

13. How did this event contribute to the CTPAB's goal of increasing room nights/revenue and increasing the overall economic impact of tourism in Salem?

Due to a change in date to a weekday because of city permitting and our intended artists not being available because of that, our number was not as high as anticipated. We had a count of about 5-7 overnight stays.

14. How did this event contribute to the CTPAB's goal of enhancing the quality of life and embracing a culture of inclusiveness and diversity for all Salem's residents?

Salem needs more culture of music and art. We have experienced the barriers in our community that slows down the process of displaying mural art and live new music. Our event helped influence our local partners, businesses, patrons, and elected officials in how we can enhance our quality of life in art, in this new and refreshing way. This music and art inspires people to feel, dance, and create community. We were able to collaborate with local BIPOC artists and the art and culture was able to be experienced to all of the residents of downtown Salem. Unlike Portland where there is a saturation of markets, Graffiti art and electronic music art not as appreciated or understood in Salem. But there is community that appreciates and our event helped those people connect with each other and the music and art in our city.

We had a goal to work with 10 community partners. Our partners included: City of Salem, Salem Art Association, Caakes, Tacos de la O, Eddie Caine, DJ Sticky Soundwavves, JayyshootsFuji, Joe McMahon, Chris Cazares

22. What was the most effective resource used for marketing and promotion?

The most effective resource we had was the use of social media marketing and collaboration with local partners and businesses. We reached a wider audience with our social platforms that stretch to various cities in Oregon. Our partners, who also have their own platforms, worked jointly on this event and added another layer of new audiences.

23. Did you target any Spanish language or underrepresented population groups? (Explain)

Our target are patrons of graffiti art and electronic music and naturally many BIPOC folks attended due to the origins of graffiti art and electronic music. There was much diversity including LGBTQ community, BIPOC community, youth community (15-20) who usually dont have music or art events accessible to their age,

12. How did local businesses or organizations assist in this activity?

Many businesses helped spread the word of the event, sharing information on social media, with some individuals from local businesses actually participating by attending the event.

13. How did this event contribute to the CTPAB's goal of increasing room nights/revenue and increasing the overall economic impact of tourism in Salem?

For a first time event, the Yozakura portion of Cherry Blossom Day was highly impactful. Not knowing what to expect when we put out the call to action to visit State Capitol State Park in the evening to enjoy the cherry blossom trees and lit Japanese lanterns hung in the canopies, and bring your picnic blanket and dinner, we were blown away by the participation. Starting at 5 p.m. when the event was publicized to begin at 7, we estimate roughly 1200+ people enjoyed the festivities. We do not know how many people frequented overnight lodging, but we do know many people ate at local restaurants before or after the event, and brought take out from downtown locations to eat while seated on the grass.

14. How did this event contribute to the CTPAB's goal of enhancing the quality of life and embracing a culture of inclusiveness and diversity for all Salem's residents?

This event is billed under Cherry Blossom Day, which is a celebration of the cherry trees on the Capitol Mall and the Japanese culture's impact and influence on Oregon. In that vein, this event enhanced the quality of life for many participants providing an opportunity to get out and visit with friends and neighbors, in public, after a long two years of covid restrictions. Many dressed in cultural dress, and met new friends. I have some great video of the event I would love to share, but it is too big to attach to this report. If you are interested in seeing any of the video (all under a minute in length) let me know and I can send a link to view.

I personally had conversations with roughly 35 guests the night of the Yozakura. I know a family came from Portland, a family from Eugene was present. I recognized many faces in the crowd, including Grand Hotel employees, local business owners, artists, musicians, photographers and Caesar the No Drama Llama also made an appearance and stole a little bit of the cherry blossom's thunder, but was a crowd hit.

22. What was the most effective resource used for marketing and promotion?

Facebook and oregoncapitol.com and Oregon parks websites were the only resources used. We pivoted because of rising Covid numbers around the first of the year and cancelled our major festival day. Instead we decided on the Yozakura in the park because there were no enclosed spaces and people could come throughout the publicized time.

23. Did you target any Spanish language or underrepresented population groups? (Explain)

Our Cherry Blossom Day partners are a majority of Japanese groups in the region (Portland to Eugene). They shared the event with their mailing lists as well as the lists that we have developed over the years. We also host the information in Spanish, Mandarin and English in our welcome center and have Google Translate for all information present on Oregoncapitol.com.

12. How did local businesses or organizations assist in this activity?

Salem Art Association partnered with Caakes Unltd., a downtown Salem skateboard and apparel store. Temporary murals were painted on canvas in the alley next to Caakes. Music was provided by DJ Sticky Soundwavves, and Tacos de la O provided Mexican food. Three local graffiti artists produced the event, which was a celebration of street culture – art, music, and food.

13. How did this event contribute to the CTPAB's goal of increasing room nights/revenue and increasing the overall economic impact of tourism in Salem?

As part of the well-publicized Make Music Salem Day on June 21, our event was one of many venues providing entertainment throughout the Salem-Keizer area. As such, it helped bring in audiences from outside the immediate area to enjoy music and other activities. Increased foot traffic in the downtown area brought in by the activities from people who would otherwise not be in the area means surrounding businesses see increased sales and business. Overall, events such as these help create a reputation for Salem of supporting and nurturing the arts in all forms, which is a driver for increased tourism. In addition, the event was an opportunity to promote the Salem Art Fair and Festival.

14. How did this event contribute to the CTPAB's goal of enhancing the quality of life and embracing a culture of inclusiveness and diversity for all Salem's residents?

Our event embraced and celebrated the graffiti and skateboard culture in Salem, both of which are often overlooked or dismissed. This vibrant culture is made up of a predominately younger audience, though it appeals to people of all ages. Two of the other collaborators for this event were Latinx businesses (DJ Sticky Soundwavves and Taco de la O) and two of the graffiti artists were Latinx as well, bringing in elements of that culture to the event.

SAA has been actively seeking to expand its role as a cross-cultural organization that elevates and embraces all of the different communities in our area. Events like these, which showcase less well-known or understood areas of culture, helps members of those cultural communities see themselves as accepted members of the larger, broader Salem community and our SAA community, and helps expose other parts of the Salem community to art and music they may not be familiar with.

21. Report on the other measurable outcome documented in your application. Include the outcome, goal and method used to track.

The initial event for this grant was the 2021 Salem Art Fair & Festival, which was canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic. In October 2021, the CTPAB board voted to approve a change to a public mural event, ultimately the Making Music Salem Day. The original Art Fair request had outcomes, goals, and methodology specific to that event that weren't relevant for the new one. Different outcomes for the mural event weren't identified at the time the change was approved, therefore there aren't any that can be reported on.

22. What was the most effective resource used for marketing and promotion?

SAA used Facebook and Instagram for the marketing of this event, as the target audience is younger and doesn't use traditional media to get their news and information. Our ad reached 8,180 people in our audience, with 450 link clicks, and 91 reactions, and 25 shares. The majority of the interaction was with 25-34 year olds, with 35-44 the next highest group.

23. Did you target any Spanish language or underrepresented population groups? (Explain)

SAA didn't make posts in Spanish and didn't specifically target those demographics in the promoted posts. We were trying to reach as wide an audience as possible. However, the artists and DJ are Latinx and shared the event on their social media channels.

10. How did local businesses or organizations assist in this activity?

Corbey & Jeanne Boatwright, of Boatwright Engineering, developed and submitted the engineer drawings pro-bono for the caboose ramp and deck project (a $45,000 value). They have continued to be our advocate in their communications with the city during the permitting process. Kilgore Blackman has provided supplies and materials for the building of the ramp and deck, as has Cascade Nut & Bolt, Harbor Freight, and Miller Paint. F&W Fence Company relocated the fence around the caboose site to make room for the ramp and deck.

11. How does this completed project increase opportunities for tourists in Salem?

The 1909 caboose, which has been on our site since it was donated in 2016, has been renovated and preserved to the condition it was in when it was running on the tracks through Salem in the 1950s. We are very proud to say the exterior of the caboose, as well as the interior exhibits, are now near completion. Our goal was to open the caboose to the public in June 2022, however, there has been some circumstances beyond our control which prevented the grand opening from happening as scheduled. The final step in the restoration process - to make this caboose accessible to all community members - is to build a wheelchair accessible, ADA approved, ramp and decking which will encircle the caboose, so that visitors of all abilities will be able to experience the artifact and its educational exhibits, thereby increasing opportunities for tourists in Salem.

12. How does this completed project preserve the structural integrity of the building?

This project will further enhance the preservation effort currently underway on the WHC's 1909 caboose #507 by promoting the long-term stability and structural integrity of this artifact. The ramp will provide an alternative access point to the stairs and ladders normally utilized by train crews – helping to limit handling of original metalwork. The platform will provide some added benefits for continued maintenance, providing better footing for paintwork in areas where we have had to rely on scaffolding. The decking will also provide a buffer between the caboose as an artifact and the heavily travelled public walkway outside of our site, next to the caboose location, providing a deterrent to potential vandalism.

13. How does this completed project enhance operations and contribute to the viability of the facility as a major tourist attraction or cultural facility?

The caboose ramp and decking will provide much needed accessibility improvements to the caboose by providing ADA standard ramps up to the level of the caboose and access to windows and doors, allowing visual access to the space hindered by the narrow original doorways. Additional QR coded placards along the deck railing will provide visitors a digital version of the interpretive labels for improved accessibility (both visual and audio). The ramp and decking will also provide increased safety for visitors entering and exiting the caboose and more space for groups and classes to gather and review interpretive panels.

14. Describe any planned maintenance requirements for the completed project, including estimated cost.

Annual power washing of the deck and ramp will increase the longevity of the materials used; paint upgrades and a regularly scheduled maintenance plan will also be developed. These projects will be completed by the WHC facility staff and on site volunteer crew who will work the project into their daily routines.

15. Report on two measurable outcomes (the same measurable outcomes described in the grant application)For each outcome, include the outcome description, the goal and the method used to track.

Goals: New educational programming will be available to museum visitors through the accessible Rail Heritage Exhibit, instilling a renewed interest in the WHC and in turn increase membership and overall visitor involvement.

Outcome 1: Students and group tour participants will complete an exit survey after attending the new exhibit to provide feedback on the educational programming aspects of the Rail Heritage Exhibits. Feedback will be applied to restructuring hands-on learning opportunities when necessary.

Outcome 2: 5% increase in museum visitor attendance and household WHC membership after Rail Heritage Exhibit is complete, open to the public, and educational programming is implemented.

2021 Travel Economic Impact Report

The data shown in this report was procured from Travel Oregon's "The Economic Impact of Travel in Oregon" report with research conducted by Dean Runyan Associates. All dollar amounts are shown in millions.

$676.3 million estimated economic impact

Since 2018, the industry has seen steady growth of travel & tourism spending, as shown above.

Even though spending decreased by nearly 50% from 2019 to 2020 (because of restrictions on travel due to COVID-19), in 2021 the estimated economic impact of travel spending surpassed pre-pandemic times with a 5.9% growth rate.

visitor spending by commodity purchased

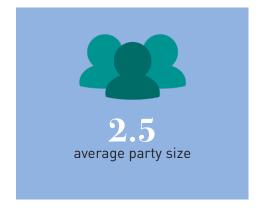

Food service, accomodations and entertainment make up the majority of commodity spending by incoming visitors.

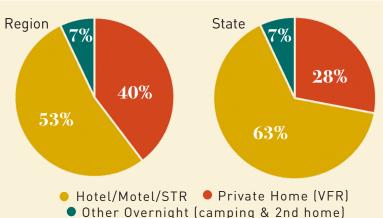

When comparing visitor spending on commodities from 2019 to 2021, there is an 8.7% increase in spending. This is presumably due to the urge and excitment of travelers returning to a sense of normalcy.

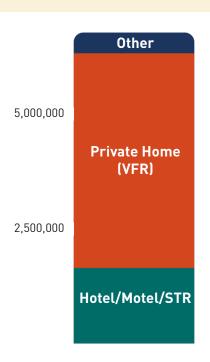

Visitors staying in hotel, motel, or short-term rentals (STR) account for 53% of overnight visitor spending in the region. Travelers visiting friends & relatives (VFR) account for 40% of overnight visitor spending. Generally, areas that are more rural or suburban see a higher rate of private home visitation.

When comparing the Marion & Polk County region to the state of Oregon, there is a significant difference in types of stay. The Marion & Polk County region has a higher than average amount of travelers visiting friends & relatives, with 40% of visitors staying at a private home compared to the state average of 28%.

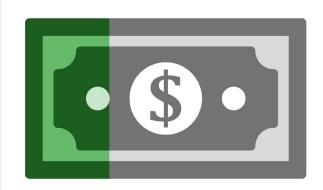

6,810,309 overnight visitors to the region

nights stayed within the region by visitors

In 2021, 72% of nights spent in the region by travelers were at a private home (VFR), while only around 22% were spent at a hotel/motel/STR.

For every $100 of visitor spending, $32.50 returns to the local economy in employee earnings.
